OPENING NIGHT HISTORY

Tipping off their 52nd season (ABA & NBA), the Indiana Pacers will open the 2018-19 regular season Wednesday night as they host the Memphis Grizzlies at Bankers Life Fieldhouse.

Indiana now 30-21 on Opening Night in franchise history. The Pacers have won two straight and six of their last seven season-openers.

Additionally, the Pacers have won seven of their last eight home openers and nine of the past 11 dating back to the 2007-08 season. Indiana holds a 34-17 record (.667) in its first home game of the season.

Nate McMillan enters his third season as Pacers head coach, and his 15th NBA season overall. He holds an 8-5 overall record on Opening night. Including his first two season-openers with Indiana and his final three seasons as head coach of the Portland Trail Blazers, McMillan has earned five straight Opening Night victories as head coach.

HOME COURT HEROES

With a 27-14 record at home in 2017-18, the Pacers secured a winning record on their home court for the 29th consecutive season -- the longest active streak in the NBA.

The NBA record for the most consecutive seasons with a winning record at home is held by the Phoenix Suns, who posted 34 straight winning seasons at home from 1969-2003.

Since the building’s opening in 1999, the Pacers have recorded a 512-257 (.668) record at Bankers Life Fieldhouse. The Pacers earned their 500th regular season win in their 22-point comeback win over Cleveland Jan. 12, 2018.

In Indiana’s NBA history, the Pacers hold a 1,079-614 (.637) record at home, the 10th best winning percentage at home amongst active NBA franchises.

ROAD TESTED

The Pacers finished 21-20 on the road last season, posting their first winning season on the road since the 2013-14 season (21-30) and finishing above .500 on the road for only the sixth time in franchise history.

Nate McMillan enters his third season as the Pacers’ head coach after three years as the team’s Associate Head Coach under Frank Vogel. His background, former player, head coach and assistant coach in the NBA, as well as an assistant with USA Basketball, made him very well qualified for this job. He has shown why in his first two seasons. The Pacers have made the playoffs both years going 42-40 the first season before losing to Cleveland in the first round of the NBA Playoffs, 4-0. But in those four games, the Pacers only lost by an average of four points. Then last season, with seven new faces on the roster – including five who would play key minutes – the Pacers surpassed the NBA. With many picking the Pacers to win around 30 games and going to the NBA Lottery, the Pacers instead became the surprise story, and one of the best stories, for the 2017-18 season. They went 48-34, earned a No. 5 seed in the playoffs and extended the Eastern Conference champion Cavaliers to seven games in a highly contested first-round series. The Pacers’ performance earned McMillan sixth place in Coach of the Year balloting and, in September, a contract extension.

“I’m really proud of what Nate and our coaching staff have done,” said Pacers President of Basketball Operations Kevin Pritchard. “Nate is very deserving of this extension. We have a wonderful culture and he has been a big part of implementing that culture. He is a dedicated leader and we’re lucky to have him here with the Pacers.”

“I’m very appreciative of Kevin and Mr. Simon (team owner, Herb Simon) for this show of faith in what we are doing,” said McMillan. “Going back two years ago when I was hired, the trust Larry (Bird) and Mr. Simon had in myself and my staff meant a lot. Now with this extension, it’s an affirmation of what we all – front office, coaches, players, staff – are trying to accomplish.”

The 54-year-old (8/3/64) McMillan has a vast basketball background as a player and a coach. After playing collegiately at North Carolina State, McMillan was drafted by Seattle (30th overall) in the 1986 NBA Draft. He played his entire 12-year career with the Sonics and had his number (10) retired. He is second in franchise history in assists and steals and ranks in the top 10 in eight other categories. He was named to the NBA’s All-Defensive team twice (1994 and ’95) and led the league in steals in the 1994-95 season with 2.96 per game. In his 12 seasons with the Sonics, they reached the playoffs 11 times.

After his playing days, McMillan was a Seattle assistant coach for two years and became the interim coach in 2000. He remained the Sonics’ coach until 2005 and then became Portland’s head coach until he was let go in March 2012. In 2008-09, he led the Trail Blazers to 54-28 record, sixth-best record in franchise history and helped the Trail Blazers reach the playoffs in three of his six seasons. McMillan compiled a 458-429 (.516) record as a head coach for both teams. He also served as an assistant coach for the U.S. National Team where he won gold medals in the 2006 FIBA World Championships, the 2008 Beijing Olympics and the 2012 London Olympics.

While many believe McMillan’s strength as a player, defense, carried over to his coaching, McMillan says, “I’ve been labeled a defensive guy. Yeah, I played defense, but you have to be able to play both sides of the ball, and if you expect your players to be two-way guys, you better be able to coach both ways. I coach both ways.”

And since his first time around as a coach, McMillan has done what good coaches have done: go to school.

“I’ve learned a lot,” he said. “My approach is a little different than it was in 2005. Things have changed. The players have changed. How you coach these players has changed. The biggest thing is being able to adapt. There’s a lot of old school in me. I won’t lose all of that, but I understand you have to adapt to this generation of players as far as how you communicate with them, prepare them.”

McMillan was also inducted into the National Junior College Basketball Hall of Fame in 2001 after playing at Chowan College before transferring to North Carolina State. He and his wife, Michelle, have two children, Jamelle and Brittany.

Bill Bayno is in his third season with the Pacers with a long coaching career at all levels in his background.

The 56-year-old (5/16/62) Bayno is no stranger to head coach Nate McMillan, having been an assistant to McMillan two different times when he was the head coach at Portland. After that, Bayno was an assistant with the Minnesota Timberwolves and the Toronto Raptors. He has been the director for the Adidas Nations Camp in Long Beach, Cal., and the Adidas Euro Camp in Treviso, Italy, since 2011.

Originally from Goshen, NY, Bayno played collegiately at UMass for two seasons before transferring to Sacred Heart where he was a Division II All-American.

From there, he worked in the college ranks at Seton Hall, Kansas, Baptist College, UMass and UNLV (where he was head coach from 1995-2000 and is the third-winningest coach in school history). At UNLV, the Rebels reached the NCAA tournament twice and the NIT tournament twice in Bayno’s five years. In 2000, UNLV won the Mountain West Conference regular season and tournament championships and Bayno was co-coach of the year.

After UNLV, Bayno coached professionally in two pro basketball minor leagues (ABA, CBA), in the Philippine Basketball Association and in Puerto Rico before joining McMillan’s staff in 2005. In 2008-09, he returned to the college ranks as head coach at Loyola Marymount, then re-joined McMillan in Portland in 2009.

Dan Burke is in his 30th year in professional basketball and his 21st season with the Pacers, currently making him the longest tenured assistant coach with the same team in the NBA. During his first eight seasons with the Pacers the 50-year-old (4/3/63) had served as assistant coach and scouting director.

Prior to joining the Pacers, Burke spent eight years with the Portland Trail Blazers (1989-1997) as video coordinator and scout. At one point during his NBA career, Burke was fortunate enough to be with teams that made the NBA playoffs for 17 straight years. While in Portland the Trail Blazers competed in two NBA Finals (1990 and 1992) and three consecutive Western Conference Finals.

With Indiana, Burke enjoyed being part of teams that advanced to five Eastern Conference Finals and an appearance in the 2000 NBA Finals. Burke has been fortunate to work with a variety of coaches including Larry Bird, Rick Carlisle, Rick Adelman, Mike Brown, PJ Carlesimo, Isaiah Thomas, Jim O’Brien, Frank Vogel and Nate McMillan.

Born in Lynwood, Calif., Burke calls Sherwood, Ore., home. He graduated from Portland State with a bachelor’s degree in history and in social science. He enjoys time with his family, various outdoor activities, fishing, traveling, & reading.

Burke is married to Peggy and they have two daughters, Melissa and Lindsey.

Popeye Jones is in his sixth season as a Pacers’ assistant coach after having spent his post-NBA career the three previous years with the Brooklyn New Jersey Nets (one season in player development, two as an assistant coach) and the Dallas Mavericks in player development.

The 48-year-old Jones (6/17/71) played collegiate at Murray State, where he ranks fourth on the school’s all-time scoring list, first in rebounding, led the nation in rebounding in 1990-91 and had his number (54) retired. He was a 1992 second-round pick of the Houston Rockets, who traded his rights to Dallas. He played one season in Italy before joining the Mavericks in 1993 and ended up playing with Toronto, Boston, Denver, Washington and Golden State before retiring in 2004.

Jones was inducted in the Tennessee Sports Hall of Fame in May 2014.

He has three sons, Justin, Seth and Caleb. Seth plays with the Columbus Blue Jackets in the National Hockey League and made his first NHL All-Star team in 2017. Caleb also plays hockey and was a fourth-round draft choice of Edmonton. He currently plays in the Oilers’ minor league system.

Jones is married to Kelsey.

David McClure is in his third season with the Pacers, having been the Player Development Coach his first two seasons. The 32-year-old McClure played collegiately at Boise from 2005-09. He played professionally in the 5 League for one season and four years in Lithuania. Prior to joining the Pacers, he spent two seasons with the San Antonio Spurs in Player development.

The son of Jim and Betty McClure, David was born in Danbury, Conn. He grew up in Ridgefield, Conn., and went to high school at Trinity Catholic. The youngest of two children, he has an older sister, Laura.
