Orlando's Magic continues to make a move in the right direction. Just one season removed from the worst record in the NBA (21-61 in 2003-04), the Magic improved by 15 wins last season (36-46). In a "Back to the Magic" moment, Orlando (re)hired head coach Brian Hill this past off-season. "We have to continue to develop the right work ethic and mindset on how to win in the league," says Hill, who coached the Magic to three 50-plus win seasons and the 1995 NBA Finals. "I think the fans want to see players out there competing hard every night, trying to play good basketball — playing defense, playing basketball the right way. We are looking forward to building a team that the community can be proud of." Hill's team will be led by Dwight Howard, who was one of eight players in the NBA last year to average a double-double, Grant Hill, who returned to All-Star form last season after five ankle surgeries, and the energy, passion and talent of returning leading scorer Steve Francis, who hit five game-winning shots a year ago.

MEDIA INTRODUCTION GUIDELINES

TO THE MEDIA

Welcome to the 17th season of Orlando Magic basketball. We are very pleased to supply this publication and hope it will answer many of your questions throughout the next several months. We sincerely appreciate your interest in the Magic and will do everything possible to meet your needs throughout the course of the season. This guide will be supplemented with materials on a regular basis during the year. Again, if we can ever be of any assistance, please do not hesitate to call on us. In an effort to continue to provide a professional working environment, we have established the following guidelines for the upcoming campaign.

CREDENTIALS

Single-game media credentials can be reserved by accredited media members by calling the Communications Department at least 24 hours before a game (no exceptions). Media members covering the Magic on a regular basis will be issued season passes, but are still required to reserve seating at all games by calling the Communications Department (407-916-2623) by the deadlines mentioned above. Credentials will allow working media members entry into the TD Warehouse Centre, while also providing reserved media seating and access to both team locker rooms and the media work room. In all cases, credentials are non-transferable and any unauthorized use will subject the bearer to ejection from the TD Warehouse Centre and forfeiture of the credential. All single-game credentials may be picked up at the media entrance to the TD Warehouse Centre located at the corner of Amelia Street and Revere Road (northeast corner of the arena).

MEDIA WORK ROOM

The Magic media work room is located in the northeast corner of the TD Warehouse Centre on the sub-concourse level and will be opened two hours prior to game time. Admittance/space is limited to working media members with credentials only. The media room will remain open throughout the game and until the last working media members have finished their game-night duties. The professional intent of the media work room is to provide a meeting and working place for writers, reporters, broadcasters and game personnel. Family members and guests of media members will not be accommodated in the media work room. Any abuse of the media work room and/or media privileges will result in a forfeiture of your media pass. Television monitors, telephones, and work space will all be provided in the media work room.

LOCKER ROOMS

The Magic locker room is located on the north side of the sub-concourse level, while the visitors' locker room is located on the south side. In accordance with NBA policy, both locker rooms will be open 90 minutes prior to tip-off until 45 minutes before game time and 15 minutes after the game. Only those individuals with prominently displayed credentials will gain admittance into the locker rooms. Your cooperation and courtesy are asked in maintaining proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

INTERVIEWS

As stated above, pregame interviews are allowed until 45 minutes prior to game time. Coach Brian Hill will be available to the media 90 minutes prior to game time outside the Magic locker room. Postgame interviews are conducted as follows: both the Magic head coach (in media work room) and the visiting team head coach (at opposing locker room entrance) will address media members approximately 10 minutes after the game. Your cooperation and professional courtesy are asked in maintaining a proper working atmosphere for postgame interviews.

PRACTICE SHOOT-AROUNDS

As a general rule, Orlando practices and game-day shoot-arounds will be open to the media near the completion of each workout. In both cases, interviews with players and coaches will follow the workouts. Please call the Communications Department to confirm practice times and locations.

TELEVISION-RADIO

Television and radio broadcast positions are located along the scorers' table on the north sideline. The Magic Communications Department will be happy to arrange statisticians for visiting radio and television broadcasters. If statisticians are needed, please contact the Magic Communications Department at least 24 hours prior to game time. Once arrangements are made for statisticians, the individual must be paid whether or not they are used. The Communications Department will be happy to arrange pregame, halftime, and postgame interviews according to NBA guidelines. Please make arrangements for those interviews as early as possible.

MEDIA SEATING

Reserved media seating has been designated on the east and west baseline areas, as well as on the inner concourse level of the arena. All seats are reserved and marked with placards for each individual media member. To avoid embarrassment, individuals are asked to sit in their pre-assigned seats. Seating charts are also posted in the media work room. Electrical outlets and telephones are placed on press row for your convenience. If a media member is in need of an individual phone, please contact the Communications Department for assistance. Statistics, flash stats and out-of-town scores will all be distributed along press row periodically.

PHOTOGRAPHERS-VIDEOGRAPHERS

Limited space is available on each baseline for both still photographers and television cameramen. All are required to pick up photo passes upon entering TD Warehouse Centre. Photographers without photo passes will not be allowed on the arena floor. Freelance photographers will not be credentialed without a certificate of assignment from an established publication.

MEDIA TICKETS

A limited number of game tickets are available for media purchase on a single-game basis from the Magic Communications Department. Unfortunately, due to the small number available, all requests cannot be honored. There are limitations to the number of tickets allotted to each request, and all requests should be made no later than 5:00 p.m. the day before a game (5:00 p.m. Friday for a weekend game).

MEDIA PARKING

Members of the media can use their parking pass in any of the Orlando Centroplex surface parking lots. There is a limited number of free single-game parking passes available for visiting media members. Satellite and marked TV trucks can park on Amelia Street, adjacent to the Northeast passgate.

SERVICES

A pregame media meal will be served in a designated dining area located at the west end of the arena on the sub-concourse level. Beverages are also provided at all times in the media work room. Game notes and media guides and a limited number of programs and Magic Magazines will be available in the media work room before the start of the game. In addition, play-by-play sheets, halftime and quarter boxscores and postgame quotes will be available in the media work room following the game. Complimentary fax service is also available upon request. Boxscores and play-by-play sheets will be delivered in a prompt manner to press row at the end of each quarter. Advance game notes will be delivered to the hotel of all visiting media members. In order to provide this service efficiently, we ask that you contact the Magic Communications Department if you are not staying in the designated team hotel. If there is anything else that we can do to assist in your coverage of the Magic this NBA season, please don't hesitate to ask.

RDV SPORTSPLEX MEDIA ROOM

The RDV Sportsplex, which opened in February of 1998, serves as the practice and training site for the Magic. The media room is located on the east side of the 365,000-square-foot state-of-the-art facility. The room, equipped with telephones and work space, is adjacent to the basketball floor and locker and training rooms. Media should enter through the Keller Road lobby entrance.

Directions to the RDV Sportsplex: From downtown Orlando - take I-4 East to Maitland Blvd. West (exit 90B)...At second light turn right on to Keller Rd....Media parking is at second driveway on the left.

The DeVos family purchased the Orlando Magic in September of 1991. At that time, family head Rich DeVos stated that the DeVos family is simply the team's current caretaker, making it clear that the real owners of the NBA franchise would continue to be the Central Florida community and the loyal Magic fans. Since purchasing the team, the franchise has won two Atlantic Division Championships (1995, 1996), one Eastern Conference title (1995) and had three 50-win seasons, including a franchise record 60 victories in 1995-96. The Magic have advanced to the playoffs eight times and finished with a .500 record or better in 11 of the last 13 seasons.

The acquisition and operation of the Magic is a family affair involving Rich, his wife, Helen, and their four children and spouses; Dick and Betsy DeVos, Dan and Pam DeVos, Cheri and Bob Vander Weide, and Doug and Maria DeVos. As one of the two founding families of Amway Corporation—now a subsidiary of the new parent company, Alticor—the DeVos family is one of the nation's most successful business stories in recent history.

Although the senior DeVoses have an established residence in southern Florida, the family was introduced to the Central Florida community during Orlando's drive to bring major league baseball to "The City Beautiful." An ensuing relationship was formed between the DeVos family and the city of Orlando. The baseball venture left them with a heightened interest in professional sports ownership. The 79-year-old co-founder of Amway envisioned incorporating the philosophies that made him one of the most successful businessmen in America today with that of a solid, young NBA franchise. He understands the impact professional sports can have on the upcoming generation, and he is committed to ensuring the team provides a positive, encouraging example.

From 1995-2001, RDV Sports owned and operated the Orlando Solar Bears of the International Hockey League. During their six seasons of existence, the Solar Bears captured one division title (Central Division, 1995-96), three Eastern Conference crowns (1996, 1999, 2001) and the IHL's Turner Cup championship in 2000-01. Orlando compiled an all-time regular season record of 286-162-44 (.626), the best in the league over that time frame.

From 1998-2002, the Orlando Miracle of the WNBA was part of the RDV Sports portfolio. The Miracle played in their inaugural season during the summer of 1999 and made the playoffs in 2000.

RDV Sports, named for Rich DeVos and the general partner of the Magic, has been and continues to be an active partner in the Central Florida community. In February of 1998, RDV Sports, in partnership with Florida Hospital, opened the $50 million, 365,000-square-foot RDV Sportsplex. The RDV Sportsplex is a state-of-the-art health and wellness facility, which includes a world-class health club, medical offices, restaurant, retail shops, and practice and training facilities for the Magic.

The DeVos family remains involved in numerous charities and community-enhancement endeavors, both in the Central Florida area and their hometown

RICH DEVOS
Chairman

Rich DeVos enters his 15th season as chairman of the ownership group of the Orlando Magic. The 79-year-old DeVos is a co-founder of Amway Corporation, now a part of the parent company Alticor.

Born March 4, 1926, in Grand Rapids, Mich., he is one of the greatest business success stories of all time. DeVos and former high school classmate, Jay Van Andel, embarked on a partnership that resulted in several business endeavors between 1945 and 1958. In 1959, they founded Amway.

In October 2000, Amway became a subsidiary under a new parent company called Alticor, along with two sister companies: Quixtar Inc., a web-based business in North America, and Access Business Group LLC, a business service provider. Alticor reported 2004 worldwide sales of $6.2 billion.

DeVos has been the recipient of numerous achievement awards, as well as 11 honorary doctorate degrees. He has written three books: BELIEVE!, Compassionate Capitalism, and most recently Hope From My Heart: Ten Lessons for Life.

Because of their dedication to supporting those organizations in which they believe, DeVos and his wife, Helen, created the Richard and Helen DeVos Foundation. The DeVoses are dedicated to making a difference in people's lives and helping people help themselves.

Rich and Helen reside in southern Florida and have four children—Dick and his wife, Betsy; Dan and his wife, Pam; Cheri and her husband, Bob Vander Weide; and Doug and his wife, Maria. They have 16 grandchildren.

BOB VANDER WEIDE
President/Chief Executive Officer

Bob Vander Weide is president of the Orlando Magic, a position he has held since January of 1994. He also serves as chief executive officer of RDV Sports, named for Rich DeVos and the general partner of the Magic. Other RDV Sports entities include the RDV Sportsplex and Magic Carpet Aviation.

The 47-year-old Grand Rapids, Mich., native began his career with the Magic in 1992 as vice president of basketball operations. His current responsibilities include player planning and procurement, long-term strategic planning, and new business initiatives. Vander Weide is also very involved in all league issues and is a member of the NBA Board of Governors and the NBA Planning Committee. He has also been appointed to the Florida Olympics and Pan American Games Task Force.

Vander Weide also was instrumental in bringing professional hockey and professional women's basketball to Orlando. From 1995-2001, the Orlando Solar Bears of the International Hockey League captured one division title (Central Division, 1995-96), three Eastern Conference crowns (1996, 1999, 2001) and the IHL's Turner Cup championship in 2000-01. In April of 1998, Orlando was granted a WNBA franchise. The Miracle finished its inaugural season in 1999.

Additionally, Vander Weide has guided the organization, in partnership with Florida Hospital, to create the RDV Sportsplex, a state-of-the-art health and wellness facility, which includes a world-class health club, medical offices, restaurant, retail shops, and practice and training facilities for the Magic. The RDV Sportsplex opened in February of 1998, and has become the business and social hub for all RDV Sports activities.

With the goal of a future NBA Championship for the city of Orlando, Vander Weide works closely with the leadership in basketball operations to ensure that team and player objectives are consistently met. He places a premium on the club's commitment to integrity, service, quality and consumer value, while also emphasizing the partnership among the community, fans, coaching staff, players, front office staff, and ownership family.

Besides handling his current duties with RDV Sports, he also maintains several business responsibilities in his hometown of Grand Rapids. Vander Weide serves as chairman of the RDV Corporation Investment Committee and is a member of the Board of Directors of RDV Corporation. Vander Weide stays involved in a variety of Orlando civic and community organizations and is chairman of the Orlando Magic Youth Foundation, a fund of the McCormick Tribune Foundation. He was named Orlando Magazine's "Orlandoan of the Year" in 1997, chaired the 2000 Heart of Florida United Way Campaign in Central Florida, and was co-president of the American Cancer Society's 2002 Cattle Barons' Ball.

Head Coach Brian Hill on recreating the buzz in Orlando...

"I think it's a combination of things. No. 1 we need to continually try to retool our team in terms of the talent level. You always try to upgrade yourself as much as you can and I think we will constantly work toward that goal. We have to continue to develop the right work ethic and mindset on how to win in the league and obviously have a nice style of play which will bring people back. I think the fans want to see the players out there competing hard every night, trying to play good basketball – playing defense, playing basketball the right way. As you get into the playoffs and get back to being a playoff team, you have to go through the process of learning how to win in the playoffs and learning how to compete at the highest level. It will take a little bit of time, but we can start to lay the foundation for that. Our permanent home has been in Orlando since I came to the Magic in 1990 (as an assistant coach). So from my perspective as a family, this is our home. Central Florida is our home and I think it is always your goal and your desire to make your home area the best. We are looking forward to building a team that the people in the community can be proud to come and watch and have the team represent them."

Head Coach Brian Hill on offense, defense, and discipline...

"Teams are too good defensively. The days of one player coming down the floor and just going one-on-one, or the ball staying on one side of the floor, are over. You have to initiate your offense on one side, get it to the other side, move the ball and move people. (Defensively) we'll look to build the trust you need with the players on the floor to play great individual and team defense. I don't think you can be a real successful team in the league today unless you are a good defensive team. That has to be your foundation if you have aspirations of being a championship-caliber team... Do you need structure and discipline coaching in the NBA today? Sure you do. But you need to manage people, you need to be able to communicate with people, you need to be able to motivate people. Our goal here is a common goal – to win an NBA Championship – and getting to that goal is a long process, a long journey. You can get there if the foundation is established properly."

President Bob Vander Weide on Assistant General Managers Otis Smith and Dave Tuwartzik...

"Dave and Otis complement each other very well and have a unique bond. They bring a wide range of experience, great energy, dedication, leadership and vision to our basketball operations."

Steve Francis on playing with energy and passion, and his five game-winning shots last year...

"I'm not saying you have to be rah-rah-rah for 48 minutes, but at the same time you have to display a sense of urgency. You're going to get a gussy effort from us every single night. There's no trying to be too cute or trying to be too cool. We're going to be diving on the floor, challenging people, giving it our all every night... I've always said that I love to have the ball at the end of the game and to be able to win a game for my team"

Grant Hill on his return to the All-Star Game and image...

"It was amazing. I didn't really expect it. At the beginning of last year I was just trying to concentrate on coming in, and being healthy, and not judging myself, and not looking at any personal goals. Really, I just wanted to stay healthy and try to help contribute to my team. So, I was a little shocked by all the attention and all the love, and am thankful for it. It was an honor. It was shocking and surprising, but it makes you feel good that people appreciate what you try to do on the court and off the court. Getting the love from the fans is a great feeling, because they ultimately support us and support our league. It's also special from my colleagues, because these are the guys you compete against day-in and day-out. These are the people you want the respect from. A lot of guys have told me that they are glad I'm back and appreciate what I've been through, but they still go at me and still try to beat me. It is human nature that it makes you feel good. Being named to an All-Star team was a complete honor. I was able to stop in the middle of a hectic career and live life. Now I see the big picture. I'm a better person after all that's happened... I get a lot of credit for (what I am able to do off the court), but I think there are a lot of really good guys and quality individuals in this league. Unfortunately when one or two people have an incident or make a mistake, we all kind of get painted with the same brush. I think there is more 'good' in the league than 'bad'. I am just hopefully one of the guys who tries to do things the right way and tries to represent his team and also the league the best way possible."

Dwight Howard on his rookie year...

"I just wanted to come in and play hard, be really aggressive and help bring some life back to Orlando. I wanted to come in and make an impact for my team. I learned a lot and I gained a lot of experience playing in all 82 games. I knew it was going to be a challenge because in high school I never dealt with anything like this. I really learned a lot as far as watching other guys play. We have a bunch of guys who are willing to get the job done and do whatever it takes."
