

NBA 2004-05 TOP 5-MAN UNITS

82games.com tracks which players are on the court at every moment of the game, and thus produces statistics showing performance for each specific "five man unit." An easy analysis is to sort the units by plus/minus to see which 5-man groups have been posting the best results.

Now, if you scale things to a plus/minus per 48 minutes, the ranking's change quite a bit, but given that many units have only played a small time together for the most part it makes sense to use totals. Also, a unit that can play long stretches with exceptional results is truly valuable, since it means that in spite of the opposition trying to find mismatches on the "answer" to that lineup combo, they still dominate. It should not be a shock that the top four spots belong to the four conference finalists, and indeed the title winning Spurs have two units in the top ten.

Legend:

- Min = the percentage of the team's total minutes the unit was on the floor.
- +/- = the team net points for the unit
- W = number of games a unit outscored its opponents while on the court.
- L = number of games a unit was outscored by its opponents while on the court.
- Win% = the winning percentage for the unit based on Wins versus Losses.
- eFG = the effective shooting percentage, adjusted for the value of 3-point shots.
- eFGA = the effective shooting percentage allowed to opponents.
- FTA = net free throw attempts per 48 minutes
- Close = the percentage of shots taken from close range.
- dClose = the percentage of opponents' shots taken from close range.
- Reb = the rebound percentage for the unit, based on off. reb% + def. reb%
- T/O = the net turnover percentage for the unit based on opponent turnovers minus unit turnovers.

TEAM SHOT CLOCK USAGE

This table from 82games.com focuses on how teams have performed in the different shot clock segments for both offense and defense. We have elected to break the 24 seconds down into four categories: 0-10 seconds - "Quick" possessions coming from fast breaks, putbacks, turnovers and other events. 11-15 seconds - "Early" resolution to a possession. 16-20 seconds - "Structured" possession. 21+ seconds - "Late" possession activity, often rushing to beat the shot clock buzzer. Use - the percentage of possessions that were concluded in that shot clock window. eFG - the effective field goal percentage (adjusted for 3-pointers) of FGAs. RTG - the points per 100 possessions in the given shot clock segment, encompassing field goal shooting, free throw shooting, turnovers and rebounds. For comparison purposes, here are the "Pts per 100 Poss" NBA league wide averages: 0-10 Secs: 112.3, 11-15 Secs: 102.3, 16-20 Secs: 100.6 and 21+ sec: 91.8 ...It gets tough in the waning seconds of the shot clock!

RATINGS OF NBA PLAYERS BY POSITIONS 2004-05

Some NBA people evaluate players by comparing their numbers in nine statistical categories: rebounds, steals, blocked shots, turnovers, field goal percentage, free throw percentage, three-point field goal percentage and points per game. The best performer in a category gets a 1 and the worst gets the highest number being compared. Then you add the totals in each category and the player with the lowest total is deemed the best. We've split the lists into point guards, shooting guards, centers, power forwards and small forwards even though some players play two positions. In those cases, we place the player in the position he plays the most.

KEVIN GARNETT AGAIN LEADS TENDEX RATINGS

One of the most popular ways to evaluate NBA players is the Tindex system. Kevin Garnett was again tops in 2004-05 following his 2003-04 and 2002-03 victories (Shaquille O'Neal was the 2000-01 and 2001-02 victor). Past winners were Garnett in 1999-2000; Shaquille O'Neal 1997-98 and 1998-99; Karl Malone 1996-97, David Robinson 1995-96 and 1994-95 and O'Neal in 1993-94. The points are calculated this way: points plus rebounds plus assists plus blocks minus turnovers minus (missed field goals plus missed free throws). The total is then divided by the minutes played.

At the end of the 2004-05 season the total points scored in NBA history were 8,920,887.

CHARLES JONES NO. 1 NON-SHOOTER IN NBA HISTORY

We have updated the list of the players who have been most reluctant to shoot field goal attempts. The guidelines are seven years in the league, playing at least 41 games per season and a career scoring average in single digits through 2004-05. Charles Jones attempted just 1510 shots in 14,095 minutes or one shot every 9.3 minutes. Next in line are Manute Bol 7.2 minutes, Harvey Catchings 6.2, Greg Kite 6.2, Ervin Johnson 6.17, Ed Nealy 6.113, Paul Griffin 6.07, Michael Smith 5.9, Mark Eaton 5.6, Dennis Rodman 5.4, Jon Koncak 5.3, Greg Dreiling 5.3, Greg Ostertag 5.3, T.R. Dunn 5.2 and Danny Vranes 5.0.

STIVRINS IN FIVE UNIFORMS IN 1992-93

Forward Alex Stivrins suited up for five NBA teams (one twice) during the 1992-93 season. He started the year with Phoenix where he played for eight games. Then he moved to Atlanta for five games as part of two 10-day contracts. Then came a 10-day pact with the LA Clippers where he played once. Then he moved to Milwaukee for a 10-day pact that saw him play thrice. Finally he returned to Phoenix for two more games. For the year he played 19 games, 76 minutes, scoring 41 points, for a 2.2 avg.

ONLY 25 20-PLUS GAME SEASON IMPROVEMENTS

It's not easy to win 20 more games from one season to the next in the NBA. Actually only 25 teams in the history of the league have turned the trick. Only four teams won 30 plus games—San Antonio going from 21 to 56 in David Robinson's rookie season and from 20 to 56 in Tim Duncan's first season, Boston jumping from 29 to 61 in Larry Bird's first year and Phoenix soaring from 29 to 62 in 2004-05. Chicago (3 times), Phoenix (twice), New Jersey (twice), Milwaukee, Portland, Orlando, Washington, Baltimore, LA Lakers, Buffalo, San Diego, Golden State, Dallas, Cleveland and Boston and 2003-04 Memphis and Denver were the teams that did it in the 20's. The 1998-99 season is not counted because of the 50-game card.

KEVIN GARNETT AGAIN TOPS PLAYER PRODUCTION RATINGS

The most popular system utilized in the NBA to determine a player's worth is giving credit and minuses to players in 11 different categories. A player gets 20 points for a field goal, defensive rebound or an assist; 15 points for an offensive rebounds, steal or blocked shot, and 10 points for a 3-point field goal or a free throw made. On the other hand he gets minus 20 for a turnover and minus 10 for either a free throw missed or a field goal missed. You can add the points for each player in the 2004-05 season and rate them three ways — total points, points per game, and points per minute played (minimum 400 minutes). Below are the top 30 in each category and bottom 30 in points per minutes played. Kevin Garnett was the winner for the second straight year.

RODMAN NOT IN WILT'S CLASS IN REBOUNDING

For those who compared Dennis Rodman's rebounding skills to those of Wilt Chamberlain, we suggest you look at the rebounding totals for the 53 years that the league recorded them. Wilt 9 times averaged better than 20 rebounds a game a season and Rodman's highest was 18.7. Wilt has six of the NBA's seven highest rebounding seasons, while Rodman's 1991-92 best 18.7 only gets him the 14th best season.

MACCULLOCH & MIX IN BACK-TO-BACK FINALS

Todd MacCulloch was the fifth player in NBA Finals history to appear in the Finals in back-to-back seasons with two different teams. MacCulloch, who reached the Finals in 2001 with Philadelphia and in 2002 with New Jersey, joins Steve Mix, who played for Philadelphia in 1982 and the LA Lakers in 1983; Danny Ainge, who suited up for Portland in 1992 and Phoenix in 1993; Steve Kerr, who was with Chicago in 1998 and San Antonio in 1999; and Frank Saul played with Rochester in 1951 and then in Minneapolis in 1952.

ALLEN IVERSON WINS NASH'S PLAYER RATINGS SYSTEM

Here's the way John Nash, Portland GM, rates players. His formula to calculate points is as follows: Points plus rebounds plus steals plus blocked shots divided by two. Then add assists multiplied by two. Subtract turnovers and then divide the remaining figure by the player's games played. Here are his figures for 2004-05.

PHIL JACKSON'S FEAT

Phil Jackson is the first coach in league history to capture three consecutive championships three different times. Jackson's Chicago Bulls three-peated twice (1991-93 and 1996-98). He is also the first coach to win three straight rings with two different teams.

The only other coaches to win at least three consecutive titles were John Kundla of the Minneapolis Lakers (1952-54) and Red Auerbach, who guided the Boston Celtics to an NBA-record eight straight championships from 1959-66.

HAMILTON TOPS IN SCORING MINUS ANY FIELD GOALS

Richard Hamilton of Detroit was the first player in NBA history to lead his team in scoring without making a field goal against Memphis on January 6, 2005. He was 0 for 10 from the field, but converted all 14 of his free throw attempts.

ANOTHER WILT MARK STILL STANDING

Wilt Chamberlain is the only player in NBA history to average 23 points, 14 rebounds and 6 assists in the same season. Wilt did it in 1966-67 and 1967-68. So that mark has stood for almost 40 years.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN OLDEST FACILITY

New York's Madison Square Garden is the oldest unimproved building in the NBA, having been constructed in 1968. Oakland's arena actually was built in 1966 but it underwent major reconstruction in 1996, causing Golden State to play elsewhere for a year.

CHRIS FORD MADE FIRST 3-POINTER

Chris Ford, now a scout with the Philadelphia 76ers, sank the first three-point field goal as a Boston Celtic when the new shot was introduced into the NBA in 1979.

NBA GAMES WITH ONLY ONE PLAYER IN DOUBLE FIGURES ON A TEAM

There were many occasions in the early years of the NBA when only one player on a team was able to reach double figures in scoring in a particular game. Most times that team lost the game. Having only a single player in double figures follows a pattern similar to the amount of scoring taking place in the league at the time. Most of the single players in double figures happened in the first eight years of the NBA, including the first three seasons when the league was called the BAA. 167 of the 254 occurrences happened during those eight seasons according to Dick Pfander of Beulah, Mich. Those were the years, prior to the 24 seconds clock, when shooting was generally poor and scoring was low. With the advent of the 24 second clock in 1954-55, one player in double figures almost totally disappeared. From 1954-55 thru 1977-78, one player in double figures occurred only twice. This period was the fast break, high scoring, less defense years of the NBA. The next 15 seasons saw somewhat less scoring in the league and one player in double figures occurred 11 times. During the last 12 seasons, as defense has become such a big part of success in the NBA, one player in double figures has taken place 76 times. That is more than three times as often as had occurred in the previous 38 seasons. The team with only one player in double figures has won only 30 times in those 256 occurrences. The complete chart follows:

DOUBLE FIGURES IN EVERY GAME PLAYED 1946-2005

Scoring double figures in every game played during an entire season is not an easy task. In 59 years of NBA basketball, the feat has been accomplished only 204 times by 90 different players. It was not accomplished, even once, until the 1948-49 season when George Mikan and Joe Fulks first did it. It happened only 5 times in the NBA's first 13 seasons.

It is so easy for a single digit game to slip up on a good player. A bad shooting night, early and deep foul trouble, injury and sickness can all pop up to keep a big scorer in single figures during a game. Scoring double figures in every game has been done by rookies, playing their first season in the NBA, only six times. In the order it was accomplished, Walt Bellamy was the first rookie, followed by Elvin Hayes, Kareem Abdul Jabbar, Charles Scott (played only 6 games), Walter Davis and Michael Jordan.

Jabbar had accomplished the feat the most seasons (15) with Jordan next at 12 seasons. Karl Malone did it 9 times, Hakeem Olajuwon, Shaquille O'Neal and Kevin Garnett seven times. Wilt Chamberlain, Moses Malone, Oscar Robertson and Jerry West did it 5 times each. Among the 204 times the feat was accomplished, three players did it (Maurice King, Calvin Natt and Carl Thomas) in the only game they played that particular season. On 10 occasions the player played less than 20 games but was in double figures in each game. A number of players played the entire 82 game schedule with double figures in all 82 games. The complete list follows:

NO DOUBLE FIGURES, ALL DOUBLE FIGURES

NBA games run from one extreme to the other when it comes to players scoring in double figures. On 15 occasions an NBA team did not manage to put even one player in double figures in a regular NBA game. On the other hand, 42 times an NBA team placed every player who played in double figures. According to Dick Pfander of Beulah, Mich. with no players in double figures a team won only 1 of the 15 games. With all players in double figures, teams won 32 and lost 10. The lone win with no double figure scorers was the now famous Fort Wayne win over Minneapolis, 19-18 in the lowest scoring game in NBA history.

Some numbers dealing with all players in double figures include: four times a team had 10 players in double figures. Five times, they had 9 players, 12 times they had 8 players and 20 times they had 7 players in double figures. On one occasion a team had six players in double figures. Philadelphia accomplished the feat 9 times (the most), while Syracuse had 7, LA Lakers 4, San Francisco 4, Boston 3 and Seattle 2. 14 NBA teams did it once each. The complete lists follow:

TWO BROTHER COMBINATIONS IN 2004-05

There were only two groups of brothers in the NBA in 2004-05. Jon and Brent Barry, sons of Rick, and Jason and Jarron Collins were the twosomes.

ED SADOWSKI FIRST NBA PLAYER EJECTED

Ed Sadowski of Toronto was the first player ejected from an NBA game on Nov. 1, 1946 versus New York, being disqualified on personal fouls. Ed later played for Cleveland, Boston, the Phila. Warriors and Baltimore in what was then known as the BAA.

PORTLAND HOLDS MARK IN FIRST ROUND PICKS

Portland had 14 first round picks on its roster in 2000-01. Denver (1994-95), Milwaukee (1986-87), Indiana, LA Lakers and Golden State (all 2000-01) and Cleveland (2001-02) all had 13. The LA Lakers are the only team ever to have four No. 1 choices (first pick overall) on their roster at the same time. They had James Worthy (1982), Magic Johnson (1979), Mychal Thompson (1978) and Kareem Abdul Jabbar (1969) on their roster in the 1987-88 and 1988-89 seasons.

DOUBLE FIGURE SCORING STREAKS

The listing below is the all time list of long double figure scoring streaks. The list begins with Michael Jordan's 840 game streak, followed by Kareem Abdul Jabbar's 787 game streak. The list also shows the starting date and ending date of each streak. It also contains the listing of the 4 players who currently have a streak. That includes more than the 2004-05 season. Kevin Garnett has the longest current streak of 246 games.

MORE THAN A DOZEN

In the 59 year history of the NBA, encompassing 43,254 games, only 37 times in 33 games has a team used more than 12 players in a game. For many years rosters contained only 10 player, then the total was raised to 11 players and then to 12. Special rules were in effect for all but one of the 33 games. At the opening of the 1970-71 season, three expansion teams came into the NBA, Buffalo, Cleveland and Portland. The three new teams were allowed to dress and use 14 players for the first six weeks of the season. They did so on only four occasions. In the strike shortened 1998-99 season, all 29 league teams were allowed to dress and use 14 players for the first two weeks of the season. They did so in 28 games, including four games in which both teams used more than 12 players. According to Dick Pfander of Beulah, Michigan, teams used 13 players on 24 occasions and 14 players were used 13 times.

GARNETT HAS PERFECT DOUBLE FIGURE SCORING 2004-05

In the NBA, as well as anywhere else in the game of basketball, consistency has always been one of the main parts of the game. To be able to put double figure points on the board night after night is a great attribute. Three players were able to score double figures in every game they played during the 2004-05 season, led by Kevin Garnett of Minnesota who was able to score double figures in all 82 games this season, according to Dick Pfander of Beulah, MI. With the halt of Michael Jordan's streak at 866 straight games, the longest current streak belongs to Kevin Garnett at 164 games. The second longest streak belongs to Peja Stojakovic at 98 straight games. Jordan finished well ahead of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's old record 787 straight double figure games.

MIAMI SETS RECORD 3-POINT FIELD GOAL STREAK

The Miami Heat hit a three-point field goal in an NBA record 594 consecutive games. The streak started vs. Detroit Jan. 21, 1994 with a Steve Smith 3-pointer and ended on Nov. 10, 2001 vs. Sacramento. In that stretch, the Heat hit 3642 treys for a 6.13 average per game. Fifty-one different players sank the 3's with Tim Hardaway the leader at 806. Fifteen times only one was made and 4 times the streak was kept alive by a 4th quarter trey.

ANTHONY CARTER TOPS TRILLION CLUB WITH 23 IN 2004-05

Some years back ex-player Scott Hastings devised the Trillion Club. To become a member you must play in an NBA game (no minimum time) and do absolutely nothing since 15 zeros follow the minute column. (A committee voted to allow a player to join the club if he only had a personal foul.) Anthony Carter led in 2004-05 with 23 to set a record. The 2003-04 winner was Darvin Ham with 10. The 2002-03 winner was John Salmons with 10. The 2001-02 winner was Mark Pope with 9; in 2000-01, Travis Knight had 11. In 1999-2000 Doug Overton and Bruce Bowen tied for first with 9. In 1998-99 David Wingate did it 8 times to beat out Brian Evans with 5. In the 1997-98 season DeJuan Wheat of Minnesota led with 11; in 1996-97 Jud Buechler was the runaway winner with 15 games. Lou Roe led in 1995-96 with 12, Doug Lee in 1994-95 with 7.

The 2004-05 totals were $582,500 and 50 suspensions; 2003-04 $470,000 and 51 suspensions; 2002-03 $795,000 and 97 game suspensions; 2001-02 $1,321,500 and 95 suspensions; 1999-00 $806,000 plus 25 suspensions; 1998-99 $358,500 plus 7 suspensions; 1997-98 $527,000 plus 118 suspensions; 1996-97 $369,500 plus 35 suspensions; 1995-96 $539,000 plus 62 suspensions; 1994-95 $305,500; 1993-94 $546,500 plus 21 suspensions; 1992-93 $600,000. Fourteen teams were not fined. Indiana had 116 of the 191 days of suspensions. The money lost by suspension is considerable since game salaries of players like Artest and O'Neal are high.

IVERSON HOLDS UNIQUE RECORD

Allen Iverson is the only player in NBA history to finish Top 5 of four different categories. In 2004-05, he was 1st in Scoring (307), 2nd in Steals (2.40), 2nd in Minutes Played (42.3) and 5th in Assists (7.9).

MARION MATCHES DAVID ROBINSON

In 2004-05, Shawn Marion matched David Robinson's 1991-92 feat of Ranking in Top 5 in Rebounds and Steals. Marion was 3rd in Rebounds (11.3) and 4th in Steals (2.01).

IVERSON 4TH TO WIN FOUR SCORING TITLES

Allen Iverson became fourth player in NBA history to capture four or more scoring titles with a 30.7 feat in 2004-05. The others are Walt Chamberlain (7), Michael Jordan (10) and George Gerwin (4).

JAMES YOUNGEST TO RECORD TRIPLE DOUBLE

Lebron James, at 20, is the youngest player in NBA history to post a triple double. He did it on January 19, 2005 at Portland. Two days later he did it again at Golden State.

DALLAS CLAIMS FOUL SHOOTING RECORD

The Dallas Mavericks claim a record that isn't shown among NBA records. That is the most consecutive foul shots made in a game. In a playoff game on May 19, 2003 at San Antonio, the Mavs made 49 consecutive foul shots after Ed Najera missed the team's first attempt. They wound up 49 for 50. The listed league marks only show the records for foul shots in a game without a miss. Dallas won the game 113-110 aided by its spectacular foul shooting.
